

County Administration Building

UPDATE #2 from the Building Committee September 2009

The Building Committee met on July 13th where they received a presentation from two building contractors that do a design-build process. The committee requested that staff seek additional contractors to give presentations at the next meeting and to also get quotes to have preliminary geotechnical soil testing done.

Funding was also discussed and reviewed. With reduced construction costs, it should still be possible to build in 2010.

The Building Committee met again on August 19th where they received two additional presentations from building contractors. The committee reviewed all four presentations and determined to shortlist to two companies.

The committee is to provide the two companies with a scope of design including size requirements and the budget. They will be preparing and presenting their design/build proposals to the building committee.

Preliminary geotechnical soil testing is being done at the site to assist in determining the best possible location for the administration building.
